

A BIG GREEN AND white bus that has been parked for some time on Bascom Ave. across from the PruneYard has intrigued us.

There is a "For Sale" sign on the back and one also on the front.

Although we are curious about it, we haven't stopped to examine the signs on which there must be a phone number or address.

After all we are not in the market for a bus.

From time to time the bus is apparently driven away on its power (probably to get around any problem about the length of time a vehicle can be parked on a street.)

But then it always shows up again still with the "For Sale" signs in place.

We have yet to see any potential customer examining it or kicking the tires or whatever. In fact we haven't even seen anyone around it. Period.

It looks to be in good condition. At least it gives that impression to us as we scoot by and we assume that someone in the immediate area must be the owner.

Of course, that is not necessarily true. The party who is trying to sell it just may think the Bascom Ave. location across from the PruneYard is a good spot to show it off for any potential customer who may be passing.

And that's another thing. We can't help but wonder just how many potential bus customers are traveling Bascom or any other street for that matter.

And then we are also curious about the present owner.

Is it an individual and how come he has the bus? And where did it operate previously?

As we pointed out, we just don't happen to be in the market for a bus at this time, so it is pretty silly to raise all these questions.

But we happen to be of a curious nature.

So we suppose we will stop one of these days and get the details.

And, of course, if we find out anything, we will let you know.

We betcha you can hardly wait.

A RECENT NEWS RELEASE informed us that the 16th annual Bay Area Picnic and Pow-Wow will bring together Indian people of many tribes for a Labor Day weekend celebration.

The event will be held at Senter Park on Senter Road in San Jose on Sept. 2-3.

It sounds like a big thing. It is open to the public and we think that it not only should be interesting but also educational to many of us whose factual information on Indians is quite limited. By the way, it does mention that donations at the gate are tax deductible.

There will be specialty performances by Indian dancers, singers and artists. Authentic arts and crafts, jewelry, silver and turquoise, beadwork, pottery, basketry, paintings by Indian artists, Navajo rugs and many other items tribal and inter-tribal handiwork will be on sale.

Dance contests will be held and a new Bay Area Indian princess will be chosen and crowned on the second day.

The news release was submitted by George W. Woodard of San Jose, chairman of the event who, undoubtedly, must be an Indian leader in the area.

Whose of us who have ever given any serious thought to it often feel somewhat guilty about the shoddy treatment that was given the real Americans over the years.

We think it is quite refreshing to learn that in this modern age that the Indians have taken steps to retain their cultural background.

And, incidentally, we par-

UNDER-ESTIMATES HELP SITUATION

City may get three-cent tax cut

Council to set rate, adopt final budget next Monday

Campbell's largest budget in its history ($4.4 million), an increase of $478,495 over last year, can be financed by a three-cent drop in the tax rate, City Manager Bob Stephens submitted to a City Council study session Tuesday night (after press time).

At the Council meeting next Monday, Aug. 28, the final budget for the 1972-73 fiscal year will be adopted and the tax rate will be set.

If the Council approves of the city manager's recommendation, the tax rate of $1.89 per $100 assessed valuation will be cut to $1.86. The tax rate is broken down at $1.18 for operation; 12-cents for city hall completion and 56-cents for debt service.

Last year the breakdown was $1.18, operational; 12-cents for city hall and 59-cents for debt service.

This proposed tax rate reduction is a drop of five cents from the high of $1.91 two years ago.

The City Council, Stephens explained this week, based on the results of Tuesday's study session, could further reduce the tax rate by cutting into the unallocated reserve which the city manager has suggested to be pegged at $100,000, an increase of $40,000 from what was specified for the past year.

INCREASES

Stephens also pointed out that he had recommended an increase of $125,000 for equipment and personnel above the amounts specified in the preliminary budget that was adopted by the Council in June.

He said that, if the Council does not approve this increase, the tax rate conceivably could be cut even more by the Council.

The increases that Stephens had recommended above the preliminary budget, however, are on the so-called "priority list" that were discussed during prior budget sessions.

The increases include a new street sweeper ($17,500); a patch truck ($15,000) and brush chipper ($5,000) for the public works department and three additional personnel, a police officer, a fireman and a park foreman, plus a part-time administrative assistant.

The city manager indicated that the city's fiscal position was better than it had been at any time since his arrival on the scene in 1964. He emphasized that despite the $478,000 increase in the budget and $40,000 increase in the reserve, the tax rate can also be dropped.

UNDER-ESTIMATED

The city manager admitted quite candidly that "under-estimation" of anticipated income for the past year plus a higher hike in assessed valuation than anticipated were largely responsible for the city's healthy financial condition.

The most "outstanding" underestimation, the manager said, was in the sales tax income projection which was $136,700 over expectation last year. The city staff also "missed" on property tax income by $32,490 and construction permit income by $43,190.

Stephens said that both he and Jeff Whitaker, finance director, had probably been "over-conservative" in their estimates because in the previous year they had "over-estimated" in some instances.

He added that they are quite "conservative" this year in their estimates also, estimating that the city's general fund income (exclusive of special state subventions and bond redemption) at $2,016,135 for 1972-73. They have estimated only an increase of $43,000 in sales tax over this past year and $20,000 in property tax income. The budget calls for expenditure of $2,123,705 from the general fund which will still allow a substantial unallocated reserve which was $355,778 at the end of the last fiscal year on June 30.

NEW PROPOSAL LOSES 4-2

Commission rejects townhouses

Another act in the "Amato incident," probably to date the longest-playing city "drama" in local history, took place Monday night when the Planning Commission by a 4-2 vote denied the application of Dura Style Homes for 98 town houses on 14-acres of the 31-acre parcel.

The cast for the most part for the "re-run" on Monday was pretty much the same as had appeared originally back in October last year when the "Amato incident" first opened its record run, except for three changes in the major roles on the Planning Commission.

Commissioners Fred Long, Oleg Lubeckis and Milt Howe who voted on Monday were not on the Planning Commission when the first vote was taken on the Amato issue and the commission voted 5-2 for approval. (Ironically Chairman Don Hebard, who cast one of the two negative votes the first time around was absent on vacation Monday)

On the vote, which came at the end of a prolonged discussion at the public hearing on the issue, Commissioners Lubeckis and Myron Alexander cast the affirmative votes for Alexander's motion with Commissioners Carl Larson, Milt Howe, Fred Long and Vice-Chairman Bob Stewart on the negative side.

Approximately 15 residents of the adjacent areas to the Amato property took the mike on Monday to protest the new proposal of Dura Style Homes.

Most of the residents had appeared at various times during the past 10 months when they succeeded, after both Commission and Council had approved the original Dura Style Homes proposal, in forcing the Council to repeal the ordinance that approved the project.

Appeals for large signs go to City Council next Monday

Continued hearings on appeals by two of the city's largest retail outlets, PruneYard and the new Gold Key Furniture, from the denial by the Planning Commission of signs for their respective operations will be on the agenda of the City Council for next Monday, August 28.

Fred Sahadi, of the PruneYard, was turned down on his request for a 58-foot pole sign to indicate the proper route to get into the PruneYard and Towers from the freeway.

The signs requested for Gold Key on its huge facility, almost completed on Hamilton Ave., would also be oriented to the freeway and would have 6½- and 8-foot high letters.

At next Monday's meeting, the Council is also expected to receive the recommendation of Tom Kennedy, an insurance consultant, for the city's insurance for which bids were opened this week. Kennedy was hired after the Council rejected previous bids for the insurance because of a number of questions as to cover-

PARKING CAUSES DELAY

Plans for conversion of Sunsweet go on display

A unique plan for refurbishing the Sunsweet facilities, long a traditional part of downtown Campbell, was unveiled at the Planning Commission Monday night and except for the determining of how the parking ratio should be worked out, the plan met with an enthusiastic response.

The Commission continued action until the next meeting on the zone change request, the first step in the development program, to allow the applicant, Richard Millen and his associates, to work out parking details with the city planning staff.

Bill Hedley, local architect, aided by colored renderings of the ambitious proposal, described the objectives and indicated what was planned in converting the huge frame and brick buildings of Sunsweet into "an interesting shopping and browsing area catering to artisans and craftsmen."

"THE FACTORY"

It would be called "The Factory" and the intent would be, Hedley said, to retain the character and natural state but add graphics and art work with novel entry and walkways. Hedley said that it might even be possible to utilize the "catwalk" in their design.

The architect said that the developer and his associates were experienced in this type of construction and have taken old structures and returned them to their original vitality and he predicted the same could hold true here.

Involved in the tentative plans is the proposed south loop street for which the plan line has already been established. Art Kee, planning director, pointed out that some of the parking for "The Factory" is included in the plan line for the south loop. Kee emphasized that it is imperative to work out an acceptable parking ratio before the development was under way to avoid misunderstandings later.

OTHER ACTIONS

In other actions on Monday, the Commission:

DENIED Shell Oil's application for converting one bay at a service station at 771 W. Hamilton into a car wash.

DENIED the request of Eric Bracher for a zone change from R-1 to R-D (duplexes) at 1716 White Oaks Road.

was an effort to evade the restrictions in the election code.

With Bob Sneed, of 241 Victor, as the main spokesman, the residents claimed that the law prohibited for 12 months for filing of the same plan for a development that had been repealed, and that the time limit would not run out until next June.

They maintained that the plan submitted for the 14 acres was similar to the one that previously had been submitted for the entire parcel, despite the fact that single-family home tract for 17 acres

Gunman robs store on Sunday

A lone gunman walked into Fred's Liquor's, 1707 S. Bascom Avenue, Sunday night and relieved Clerk Donald Koester, Jr. of coin, currency, liquor and cigarettes.

According to Campbell Police, the gunman appeared first to browse about the store, picking up some bottles of liquor, but when he approached the counter he informed Koester, "I guess you can consider this a holdup."

He then ordered Koester to place coin and currency in a paper bag and add to it a carton of cigarettes and the liquor he had selected.

He made Koester accompany him out of the store and around to the side of the building. Koester, walking ahead of the gunman was unsure when the man left, but reported that he did not hear or see a vehicle.

Estimated value of the items taken, including the cash, was between $300 and $400.

PruneYard to host group from Redwood City Friday

Members of the Redwood City Chamber of Commerce, under the guidance of Les Riddell, CoC manager, will tour the PruneYard and Towers this Friday, Aug. 25, as guests of the PruneYard and the Campbell Chamber of Commerce, according to Jim Payne, PruneYard director of public relations.

Payne said this marks the first time that a delegation from any Chamber of Commerce has scheduled a visit to Campbell's new landmark, the PruneYard and The Towers.

The group of approximately 60 is scheduled to arrive at 6:45 p.m. and immediately will be taken to the "top-of-the-towers" to gain a panoramic view of the area. The Redwood City contingent then will be briefed on the progress of the 10-story office building that is rapidly nearing completion adjacent to "Towers I" and will tour the entire PruneYard development ending at the unique book store. The "Upstart Crow and Company" where dinner will be served in the new coffee house.

Starting at 8 p.m., an "old fashioned hoe down" has been scheduled for the Gran Plaza and the new Mercado Olivera St. in the PruneYard and the delegation from the upper peninsula will be guests for this gala event.

The public has been invited to attend the hoe down, which is one of the largest square dances ever to be held in Campbell. Approximately 460 professional dancers will be doing original squares to the top 40 tunes.

CIVIC IMPROVEMENT COMMISSION

New seven-member city advisory group officially takes office

Members of Campbell's first Civic Improvement Commission, who officially took office on Tuesday, Aug. 15 with Mayor Bill Podgorske as the installing officer, expect to spend the first few weeks getting orientated as to their place in the official "city family", according to Mrs. Jeanette Watson, long active in civic beautification work, who was named temporary chairman of the advisory group.

In addition to Mrs. Watson, the seven-member commission is composed of Mrs. Campos, a housewife and part-time legal secretary; William Dok, an attorney; Mrs. Phyllis Hofer, housewife and active in community theater activities; Glen Norstrom, Jr., a management trainee at Lockheed; Mrs. Jane Peterson, real estate broker, and Joel S. Stock, a recent graduate of West Valley College and in his third year at Santa Clara University.

BY ORDINANCE

The new city commission

was established by ordinance on April 10 of this year, following several months of study and discussion, after the formation of such a group had been suggested by a number of interested citizens with Mrs. Watson, who was chairman of the Citizens for Beautification Committee, as spokesman. The new commission would absorb the beautification committee, it was explained.

The ordinance spells out the duties and responsibilities of the advisory body and emphasizes that its purpose would be to cooperate with other governmental agencies in the areas of cultural needs; health and welfare services; beautification; environment; library needs, historical needs and problems of youth and senior citizens.

Because it was possible that the new commission could overlap in functions already designated for existing city commissions, i.e., planning, youth and parks, the original draft of the ordinance called for the other commissions to be represented on it by ex-officio members from each of the commissions.

However, prior to adoption of the ordinance, the Council eliminated the "ex-officio" section.

Mrs. Watson indicated that she felt it was important for the new group of city advisors to learn how the functions and duties of the existing commissions before embarking on any particular civic project.

APPOINTMENTS

The appointments to the Commission were made in July from a list of applicants and Mayor Podgorske said that the City Council attempted to get a cross-section representation from a geographical as well as a community interest point of view.

Mrs. Watson, a graduate of San Jose State and the University of Hawaii served on the Citizens for Beautification committee since its inception. She has been active in a

Interchange study

The Planning Commission has recommended to the City Council that a study be authorized of the Campbell Avenue-Highway interchange which concept was approved more than a year ago after a series of hearings conducted by the State Division of Highways.

The state people, somewhat reluctantly, because of the close proximity to the Hamilton Ave. off-ramp and the Camden off-ramp, indicated that an interchange would be feasible.

The project, which still must receive the endorsement of the Highway Commission and other authorities, is a long way in the future and would be contingent on the City of Campbell picking up the tab for the rights-of-way involved which is estimated to cost more than $1 million.

For the City of Campbell to finance such an undertaking it would be necessary, of course, to pass a bond issue for the purpose.

In a six-year capital improvement program that has been prepared by City Manager Bob Stephens the interchange project was dropped on the "basis of debt service capability of the city."

While we concede that the interchange would serve a very useful purpose and would be of value to the community, we also recognize that there are many problems involving traffic flow that first must be solved.

For example, there is no way at the present for Campbell Avenue through town to handle any more traffic. It already is a bottle-neck of the first order and dumping more traffic from an interchange onto the street without the development of both "loops" would be the height of folly.

The interchange prouect is far into the future and that is one of the main reasons, in our opinion, that a complete study that has been recommended by the Planning Commission has merit. There is time for it.

The purpose of the study, according to the Planning Commission report, "would be to determine the effect the interchange would have on surrounding land use and on surrounding traffic patterns."

That, of course, is a commendable objective. But we are inclined to agree with the opinions expressed by Mayor Bill Podgorsek and Councilman Ralph Doetsch at a recent meeting. They questioned whether a $25,000 expenditure for such a study could be warranted at this time.

And Councilman Norm Paul added that any interchange study of necessity should be coordinated with the county study for the overall transportation picture.

The councilmen, however, indicated that they might agree with the study idea provided that a federal grant was available for the amount needed. It had been suggested that such a grant might be available.

The interchange study, as recommended by the Planning Commission, would include an engineering review of the proposed downtown street system with respect to safety and adequacy for the expected volumes of usage.

It would try to determine also the environmental impact of the proposed interchange with respect to adjacent land use, as well as the creation of traffic problems on adjacent city streets.

And it would attempt to present some remedy to the excessive volumes of speeds of through traffic which progresses through local residential neighborhoods.

These are important considerations and, obviously, such a study would have to be done by experts and will cost money.

For example, a complete report would analyze the accident history and capacity limitations of the present downtown street system and estimate potential benefits associated with a new street system.

Vehicular and pedestrian movements in the downtown area would also have to be studied from the standpoint of traffic safety and circulation and guidelines and designs should be developed.

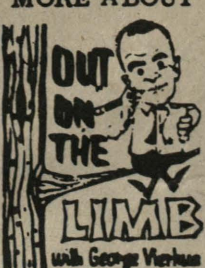

The study would also have to analyze the existing land use patterns in the area of the interchange and what changes would take place if the interchange was developed. Its effect on Campbell Avenue Park and other projects planned for the creek area would have to be considered.

And, of course, of paramount importance would be what kind of an impact the interchange would have on other city streets, including, for example, those in the residential area east of Bascom, on such streets as Ridgeley Drive, E. Campbell Ave., Fewtrell and McBain.

We think a comprehensive study of the effect and impact of the interchange is highly important.

We think the need for the study can be established, but we still question whether it is worth $25,000.

WHILE ON THE SUBJECT of news releases, we were impressed by one that Santa Clara University turned out recently pertaining to law schools in general and that university's school in particular.

If some of you had thought that perhaps the law trade had reached the saturation point more or less because of supply and demand and stuff like that, and was not going to be as popular in the future as it has been in the past, you can forget it.

The news release from SCU revealed that 110,000 persons throughout the country took law aptitude tests for admission last year before vying for the 80,000 openings that existed nationwide.

At Santa Clara, nearly 2000 men and women have applied for the 170 slots in the first year day division of the university which forced the law school to close applications last March 1.

Otherwise, the law school dean points out, the school would have had more than 3000 applications. As it was, applications this year at SCU were running 300% over 1970.

The release also noted that there were more minority students (330) and more women (295) applying than at any other time in the university's past.

Anyway we thought these figures were quite interesting.

It seems that we can all rest assured that this country is not going to run short of legal beagles.

That is, if you were worrying about it.

OUR HOUSEHOLD either needs a piggy-bank or a similar facility that can be broken into in minor fiscal emergencies we learned recently somewhat to our embarrassment, and our Dorothy's.

When The Campbell Press carrier came to collect recently at our house, we couldn't find the 70-cents we needed for the two months we owed in any nook or cranny in the joint or in our pockets or in Dorothy's purse.

We had just arrived home from separate ways and by a coincidence each had used up all spare cash.

When the little guy came to the door to collect, we knew we were broke but thought for sure Dorothy would not be in the same predicament.

But she was. And the house was also bare, coinwise.

The Press carrier was probably a little surprised at the impecunious condition and even maybe a little concerned, if he had given any thought to the fact of our relationship to the paper for which he was collecting.

But the young fella was nice about it. He came back the next day. By that time we had the dough.

To avoid such a situation occurring in the future, as soon as we get ahead a bit, we plan to cache away a few shekels in the house.

The trouble is, of course, getting ahead.

It's easier to depend on Dorothy.

Seldom do we ever have occasion to refer to the notes later on but we jot 'em down anyway.

Maybe it predates even our newspapering days and goes back to those grade school times when after school opened in the fall, almost invariably the teacher would ask for a "composition" entitled, "What I did on my vacation?"

Obviously, we took copious notes on our recent trip to Mexico City and other spots in that south-of-the-border country.

As we have warned you, you will be the beneficiary (?) from time to time as we refer to our notes in this column.

For want of a better title, our notes on Mexico are labeled "A 'Fearless' Expedition," or "Buck Rides Again."

As an explanation, the trip was under the guidance of Mrs. Evelyn Buck, long-time resident of this area and an employee of the Campbell Union High School District.

Evelyn has made many trips to Mexico and one summer attended the university at Guadalajara. She speaks Spanish fluently.

Naturally from the first we labeled her "Our Fearless Leader." That was shortened to just plain "Fearless."

She became accustomed to answering to "Fearless" and probably still will if you happen to use the term.

Hence our title for our notes.

CHANGES ?

The question of whether there were enough changes in the plans to make them different was argued pro and con.

Acting City Attorney Don Haile submitted that the 12-month moratorium did not apply unless the plan was the same and there was no intent to evade. Whether there was a difference, he added, must be determined by the Planning Commission and City Council.

Art Kee, planning director, in showing the differences in the two plans cited that (1) the new plan was for 31 acres and this one was for 14; (2) the first plan showed a difference combination of densities; (3) the accesses were different.

In their discussion, after the hearing had been closed, the commissioners indicated that whether there were enough changes to make the plans different was a matter of opinion.

DENSITY CHANGES

Vice-Chairman Stewart, however, seemed to emphasize the major concern of the majority when he cited the recommendation that the Commission had submitted to the City Council calling for the lowering of the density ratio in town.

Stewart explained that the area had been earmarked by the Commission for low density and the new ratio called for six units as opposed to the former ratio of four to seven. The town house proposal, he explained, called for a density of seven.

Lubeckis, who voted for the plan maintained that single-family dwellings were not practical along the expressway and Alexander added that the developer, apparently had conscientiously tried to meet conditions laid down by the city.

Whether the plans will now go on to the City Council apparently depends on Dura Styles.

The procedure on P-D zoning, as is the case here, is for the plans to automatically move forward to the City Council for final action with the Commission's recommendation attached.

RESIDENTS PLEASED

Residents in the audience enthusiastically applauded the vote of the Planning Commission which marked the first time in the long series of balloting on the matter over 10 months in which they had gained their point the first time around.

De-Signs: A high - rising business

Ever wonder what goes into making one of those PruneYard or Bumbleberry signs?

George Otsen can supply the answers better than anyone else. As head of Otsen Signs, a Campbell company now in its tenth year, he has had a major part in the plans for some 4600 signs.

He originally began his enterprise as an installation business, on occasion creating small signs in his Dell Avenue offices.

But, as he puts it, "the call for signs got better all the time," and he moved to his present offices at 152 Kennedy Ave.

In his "signing," he says that he tries to create signs that go along with the designs of the buildings. One of his bigger jobs included the production of the PruneYard signs. "The big beams in the PruneYard signs," he says, "were put there to go along with the design of the buildings."

"Certain types of signing," he explains, "can ruin the aesthetics of a business." One control on this is the recent adoption of ordinances to limit sign sizes, laws that he says represent "good sign control."

The procedure behind making a sign requires experience and sense, Otsen indicates, but the whole process never sounds particularly complicated.

They begin by taking a picture of the building to be signed. After studying the building design, artist Norm Johnson and Otsen put together an "artist's conception" of what they feel would do the job.

One company that wants to save money might ask for one of the square-end signs, another with a larger budget might get one of the more intricately designed shapes.

City officials must be contacted to insure that the signs meet all ordinances.

The salesman then goes back and shows the idea to the customer, who is probably doing the same thing with a number of companies.

Once the signmaker has the customer okay and the city permit, he gets down to actually putting the sign together.

Otsen's company will do practically any type and size of sign, except for small printed ones such as "Parking." The signs are completely manufactured in the Kennedy shop of 12 employees.

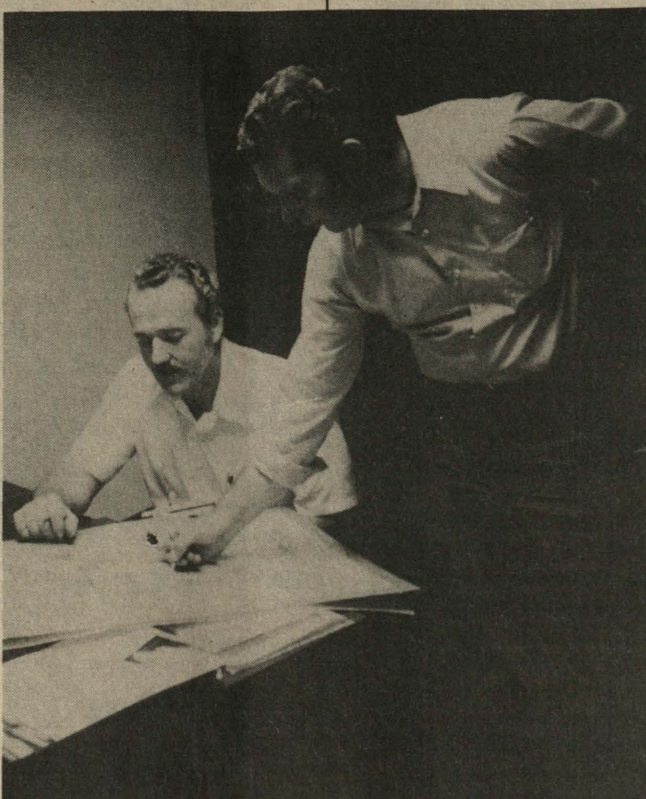

No mass production is done at Otsen's, nor, he says, anywhere else in California. Even signs that look the same, such as his recently acquired "Bumbleberry" account, are actually different. "There are differences in ordinances," he explains, and the signs have to be made differently.

The shop in back is kept busy with workers cutting out letters in plastic and putting them together into the fabricated pieces that will be put together into the sign.

To the side of his lot, old Richfield signs fill the grounds, leaving behind memories of the gas company that no longer exists, but which may be given to local youth groups to be manufactured into work projects material.

DESIGNING—Norm Johnson, standing, shows a sign idea to George Otsen, head of Otsen Signs. The Campbell company has created over 4600 signs over the last ten years.

Applications due at SJSU and SJCC

California State University at San Jose has set August 31 as the last day for returning applications for the spring semester without being charged a late application fee.

Most of the 136 academic majors offered at the University are still open, according to Clyde Brewer, director of admissions and records.

"Contrary to public opinion," Brewer said, "the University is not filled up for the spring semester."

Applications are available at high schools, community colleges, and the University Admissions Office, located on the first floor of the library building at the corner of San Fernando and Fourth Streets.

At San Jose City College the applications for admissions period for students expecting to register for fall semester day classes has been extended.

Registration at the school is planned for September 6, and students should apply as early as possible to insure admission, according to Dr. Gordon Peterson, dean of student services.

Admission tickets for the final placement test at SJCC, scheduled for August 25 at 7 p.m., are available and may be picked up at the Admissions and Records Office, Monday through Thursday from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m., and on Fridays until 5 p.m.

Schedules of classes are available in the Counseling Office.

Department praised for consumerism

Santa Clara County's Department of Weights, Measures and Consumer Affairs has received acclaim for its consumer work by the Public Interest Law Center of Berkeley.

In a recent report, the center noted that the local department is the only one in the state that operates a division for consumer protection.

The department's efforts ranked 33 per cent higher than the ten other major counties studied in the area of weights and measures enforcement.

Recent action taken by the department includes prosecution of businesses whose packaged meats were short of the stated weight, and forcing a box size change of a baby cookie brand company which only filled its boxes half full.

The Consumer Affairs division will investigate any complaint of unfair dealings with consumers or deceptive practices of any product or service.

Dimes drive Walk-a-thon is planned

March 18 will be the date for the 1973 Walk-A-Thon against birth defects in Santa Clara County, it was announced Friday (Aug. 18) at El Burro Restaurant in the PruneYard, Campbell, following a luncheon at which John Dudley, Baltimore accountant who had walked across the country, was guest of honor.

This will be the county's second Walk-A-Thon. The first, this year, has raised nearly $130,000, with pledges still being paid. The Baltimore walk this year brought in approximately $500,000 and inspired Mr. Dudley to take his across-the-nation hike to call attention to the March of Dimes, of which the Walk-A-Thons are a part.

Funds raised go into the fight against birth defects, utilizing research, education and care.

BOOK SALE

Sweet Adelines Inc., a non-profit barbershop harmony organization for women, will sponsor a book sale on Friday and Saturday evenings, August 25 and 26 at Mayfield Mall in Mountain View.

Mercado Olivera opens at the PruneYard

"Mercado Olivera," the PruneYard's Mexican marketplace, will open for a special three day sale-showing on Friday, August 25, at 10 a.m.

Mercado Olivera is designed to be a new extension of the Santa Clara Valley's cultural and commercial ties with old Mexico.

Built in the spirit of the internationally famous marketplace streets of old Mexico City, the Mercado Olivera is not so much a "place" as an experience.

Outdoor restaurants, specialty shops, kiosks and markets provide the backdrop for a real Mexican feeling. Artisans offer their crafts for show and sale.

During the three day sale, street dancing and music by the Mariachis will add to the true flavor of Mexico.

The psychedelic room of the Garret will open as a part of the weekend festivities.

Although more construction is still planned, Mercado Olivera needs the participation of Bay Area residents to bring about its growth.

POTTERY—Visitors to the PruneYard's Mercado Olivera can examine Mexican-designed pottery. The street opens for a three day sale on August 25, 26 and 27.

Pruneyard plans old fashioned hoedown

For the first time ever, square dancing will come to the PruneYard on August 25 beginning at 8 p.m.

Sponsored by the Garret, the Almaden Squares and the PruneYard, the dance will take place in the famous Gran Plaza, surrounding patios, and in the newly opened Mercado Olivera Street.

Some 460 professional square dancers will dance and perform original square dance patterns. Bob Southern, coordinator of the festival, will be the lead caller. Seven other leading square dance callers will keep the dancers on their feet for some three and one-half hours.

Among the costumes will be featured some of the most original and beautiful western attire to be seen anywhere. Boots, hooped skirts, neckerchiefs and scarfs will provide a western beauty to an evening of music which will be long remembered by all who share in the fun.

Even non-square-dancers are invited to join in the unique calling, hooping, boot slapping and hand clapping event.

It all happens on Friday evening, August 25, at 8 p.m., and will last until approximately 11:30 p.m.

SQUARE DANCE FUN—The New Almaden Squares prepare for their August 25 hoe down at the PruneYard. More than 460 professional square dancers will take part in the evening's fun.

Y'ALL COME IT'S ALL FREE ... A OLD FASHION SQUARE DANCE

We're Not Just Fiddlin' Around ... The entire public is welcome to come and enjoy one of the largest square dances held in Campbell, California. Some 460 professional dancers will be doing original square to the top 40 tunes. Y'all plan to come ...

MRS. MICHAEL C. ALLEN

Mission Santa Clara was the scene as Carol Lee Lopes married Michael Conrad Allen in a double ring ceremony.

The bride, a graduate of Campbell High School, wore a crepe satin gown designed and made by her mother. Fitted lace sleeves and an applied bodice and skirt added grace to her wedding ensemble. Her mantilla crown and floor length lace mantilla veil complimented the dress, and an old family necklace accented the scoop neck.

Carol carried a cascading bouquet of carnations, stephanotis and roses to the altar. Miss Janice Olavarri, cousin to the bride, served as maid of honor. She wore a lime green floral gown to the evening ceremony.

Diane Minuttillo, sister of the bride, Patricia Tedesco and Stevani Yarok served as bridesmaids and carried bouquets of carnations, daisies and baby's breath. The bride's sister, Nancy, also assisted in the ceremony.

Best man for the evening was Larry Dykes. Chris Allen, brother of the groom, Russell Power and Tim McCrone served as ushers for the ceremony.

The sounds of guitars filled the Mission chapel as Marty Olavarri, Cindy Olavarri and Danny Olavarri, cousins of the bride, provided the music. Terry Dykes was the lead vocalist for the ceremony.

A reception attended by 175 was held in the bride's home after the wedding.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leland F. Lopes of Campbell. She is doing her teacher's credential work at San Jose State University.

The groom is a former Air Force serviceman now attending SJSU.

The couple plan to live in Santa Clara.

Couple plan Whittier home

Claudia Diane Gardner and Mark Richard Valentine chose a private morning ceremony in which to exchange their nuptial vows.

The bride wore a beau de soie gown to the altar, graced with long sleeves, a high neckline and lace trim in front. She carried a bouquet of wild flowers with baby's breath, stephanotis and white rosebuds. Meg Gardner from Whittier served as maid of honor, wearing a light blue cotton gown similar to the bride's attire.

Jack Heine, friend of the groom, was best man for the ceremony.

After the double-ring ceremony, the couple and friends retreated for the reception to the Cabana Hyatt House in Palo Alto, decorated with a blue stairway of flowers winding around the two-tiered cake.

Claudia is an art major at Whittier College. She is a graduate of Prospect High School, and attended Campbell High School for three years. She plans to teach elementary school.

The groom, a graduate in geology at U.C. Riverside, is attending graduate school at U.C. Santa Barbara.

The Valentines plan their future home in Whittier, California.

Ballet looks "over the rainbow"

Campbell's yellow brick road leads to the Cloverdale Cabana Club presentation of
"The Wizard of Oz."

The water ballet, made up of 53 children between 9 and 16, is the latest of a series of shows which have been put together by youths in the club for the last five years.

The ballet was begun by Mrs. Chris Carver, who donates her time every summer to coach the spectacle. The program has expanded since 1968 when 11 people participated in the show.

All funds for the production are raised by the young people themselves. The costumes, purchased by the children, are tributes to the hard work put into the program by the young club members. Their concern for the quality of the show is exhibited by their conscientious attitude towards their practice sessions.

The results of all this work are shown in the artistic swimming and impressive staging of the production.

Selections from the original movie are featured in the ballet, but the actual script for the group is written by Mrs.
Carver with some of the older girls.

The group plans to repeat their show in September.
Youths participating in the program are:

Terri Neal, Joni Neal, Ann
Hart, Susan Hart, Lori Lawson, Mary Jeffrey, Julie Lind-

Local Colts go down in defeat

by Dottie Mitchell
The West Valley Colt All Stars fell under the same spell that hexed all the other local teams this summer.
Despite a sparkling start in the Regional Tournament, last week the All Stars could not combat a combination of (a) crucial errors, (b) wild pitches, and (c) unfavorable umpiring, AND perhaps most important, some quiet bats.
West Valley opened tournament play with the eventual Divisional Tournament winners, Riverside, in Santa Clara last Wednesday.
It seemed like a continuation of the previous week at the start. Gary Lynn led off with a walk; Wes Toland sacrificed him to second, and Gordy Hahn hit a base hit to score Lynn.
Brad Petroff (Riverside's winning pitcher in the finals) allowed only opposing pitcher, Jack Freeland, to reach a base after that (a base on balls) - otherwise, pitching a perfect game.
Riverside went scoreless until the fourth when Dick Allman scored (after getting a base hit) on Rick Miller's triple. In the fifth, two singles followed by a fly ball and two wild pitches scored two more to add up to the final score: 3-1.
The game the following evening with Santa Clara proved to be an exercise in frustration.
Scoring started in the top of the second with Santa Clara's Paul Biagini scoring (after a single) on Ken Arola's RBI single.
In the bottom of the second, George Hahn doubled. Tom Guardino doubled to drive in George, and Mickey Rose singled Tom in -- we led 2-1!
In the third, Lynn and Bob Healy were walked. A new pitcher forced Gordy Hahn to hit to a fielder's choice -- Healy out at second. George Hahn walked and, with two outs, Guardino walked for his second RBI. End of scoring there.
The fourth was scoreless.

In the top of the fifth, two walks and an error allowed a run for Santa Clara. Three more scored on two base hits and a fly ball.
West Valley started a comeback in their half of the fifth when George Hahn got on first after an error. Dan Bongiovanni's walk put George on second and Guardino's single gave him his third RBI when George scored. But WV died there.
In the sixth, after two outs, Don Skinner (S.C.) gained first on an error; a base hit put him on second and another hit by Dart Wagner scored Skinner. At the end of six innings: Santa Clara 6, West Valley 4. Still a chance!
The seventh saw Gary Hane (Westmont) pitching Biagini to a strike-out. A single and a walk put two batters on base. A triple by Nicolsia scored those two, followed by a put-out from Hane to Guardino at first.
Gordy Hahn led off the final time at bat for WV by being hit by the pitch. Dan Bongiovanni singled Gordy home and two final outs left a disappointed WV crew with an 8-5 deficit.
Covina and Riverside met in the second game and it took 16 innings for Riverside to win 3-1.
Santa Clara met Covina Friday night and lost 3-1.
Saturday's final saw Riverside blanking Covina 2-0 to win the coveted trip to Tampa, Florida.
"Wait'll next year!" Seems we've heard that one before!

TOSS OF THE COIN--Len James, regional director of the Colts baseball teams, tosses a coin high in the air at the tournament play in Los Gatos

Winter baseball signups at Rincon Field start Sept. 6

Campbell-Moreland Pony League will expand its Winter League program this season to include those boys who have just graduated from the area Little Leagues.

Signups for the two-division program will take place Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 6-7, at the Rincon Field clubhouse between 7 and 8 p.m.

On Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 9-10, clinics will be conducted for the Little League graduates, who will be introduced to the several differences between the Little League and Pony League programs.

The older division will accommodate those Pony Leaguers who will be returning to the program in 1973.

Campbell-Moreland extends a welcome not only to the Campbell Little League graduates but also to those who played in Moreland, Quito or any other area leagues.

Nine Santa Clara County Leagues may enter as many as 12 teams in the A Division (holders) and 8 in the B Division (Little League grads). It will be a traveling league as more games will be played away than at home--one of the appealing aspects of the program.

The two-day clinic on Sept. 9-10, directed by Pony League manager Bud Stallings, will place emphasis on baserunning, lead-offs and return, sliding, stealing, advancing on bunts and squeezes, rundowns, backing up, pitching (windup and stance with runners on) and pitcher pick-offs.

Pending signups, Campbell-Moreland plans on entering two teams in each division. For more information, call Stallings (after Aug. 27) at 378-2007.

The league will open Saturday, Sept. 16, and continue through the end of November. Games are played on Saturdays only (11 a.m. or 3 p.m.) and any practice will be confined to that day only. A registration fee of $5 is required of each participant, and this money will be used to defray cost of equipment and hats. The entire league will be uniformed.

Next meeting of the representatives of the league (officially called the Santa Clara County Winter Pony League) will be held Tuesday, Sept. 12 at 7:30 p.m. at Rincon Field.

GPA climbs at West Valley

The average grade point average for the 12,156 students enrolled at West Valley College this past spring semester climbed to 2.82 from the 2.79 registered by all students in the spring of 1971.

Leading the list were 95 students who achieved a 4.0 (straight A) g.p.a. in 12 or more units. In addition 1,171 students qualified for the dean's list, while an additional 1,457 students qualified for the part-time dean's list.

Campbell students receiving the 4.0 g.p.a. were:

Free vacations cost too much

Free vacations? Better be careful.

Robert Horger, the County Director of Weights, Measures and Consumer Affairs has warned that the County seems to be flooded with supposedly free offers, which are nothing more than rackets.

The ruse works something like this: The customer receives a phone call announcing a "Free" trip. A runner arrives at the house a few minutes later with coupons and a request for $12 to $15 to "validate" the reservations.

Reservations for desired dates, however, are not obtainable and refunds are hard to come by.

In one case, a couple read the fine print on the back of the coupon after paying the runner. One provision was that they had to send an additional $15 to an outfit in Los Angeles.

Weeks after sending the money, the couple received a letter saying the desired dates were not available along with their $15 refund--but the money paid to the runner was not refunded.

Some of these firms are under investigation by the Attorney General's Office, but this has still failed to eliminate their activities.

WV trustees refuse land transfer

Trustees of West Valley College refused to relinquish some of the college district territory during a recent meeting.

A small area of 22 homes in the Almaden area, adjacent to the Almaden Country Club properties, petitioned the college to transfer the 79 acres in question to the San Jose Community College District.

For the past few years the children residing in the area (which is part of the Los Gatos Joint Union High School districts) have attended San Jose Unified School District elementary and secondary schools on an inter-district attendance agreement.

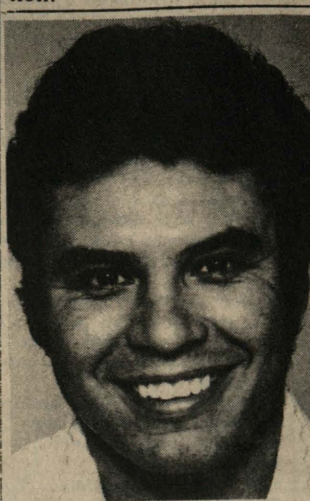

Terrain and location of the area make it impractical for bus service to be provided by the Los Gatos school districts, and the residents were thus requesting formal transfer of the property.

The transfer of territory had to be approved by both Los Gatos school districts and the college, since the college's boundary lines are contiguous with those of the Los Gatos schools.

The vote was 3-3 with board member Donald Lindstrom absent.

Those opposing the transfer were concerned about future development in this area and the possible future transfer of such territory. The area in question Thursday evening represented approximately $299,610 in assessed valuation.

ASSISTANT DEAN -- Humberto Hermosillo has been appointed assistant dean, continuing education at West Valley College.

Hermosillo, 32, has been chairman of the humanities and fine arts division since 1970. He began his teaching career at West Valley in 1968 after teaching at San Jose State for one year.

He received both his bachelor's and master's degrees in fine arts from San Jose State. He is married and has two children. His new salary earns him $22,728 annually.

APPOINTED--Dr. Mel Tuscher was appointed dean of instruction at a recent meeting of the West Valley College Trustees.

Dr. Tuscher currently is chairman of the science and math division, a post he has held since 1970. He is one of the original members of the faculty, having served as a math instructor since the college opened its doors in 1964.

He received his doctorate in education from the University of Southern California. Tuscher is 39, married and has two children. His salary will be $24,546 in the new post.

After the vote board member Robert Brydon requested the administration to gather information, for a study by the board, of all isolated territory in the Almaden area which could be used for future development. The board further directed the administration to contact the County Committee on School District Reorganization for its recommendation and to bring the entire matter back to the board as soon as possible.

Thursday evening the board filled two open administrative posts with the appointment of Dr. Mel Tuscher as dean of instruction and Humberto Hermosillo as assistant dean, continuing education.

Other items considered by the board included resolutions commending four citizens from the community who helped form the West Valley College Foundation, Inc., a non-profit corporation which is a vehicle for the receipt, administration and disbursement of private contributions and membership funds for students and educational programs at the college.

The resolutions commended Austen D. Warburton, Santa Clara attorney; Dallas Molerin, design center manager, IBM; Robert Bullard, certified public accountant; and William Christie, administrator, Memorex.

In other action the board: 1. Received the newest member of the board with the administering of the oath of office to William (Bill) Calkins, who topped a slate of five candidates in an election July 25.

2. Approved the substitution of Natkin and Company for the J. W. McClenahan Company as subcontractor for plumbing work on the humanities and fine arts complex currently under construction at the Saratoga campus.

3. Reappointed five and appointed one new member to the college's Citizens Advisory Committee. They are: Ruth Lucier, Cobby Stiney, Mrs. Donald G. Frey, Gary De Rosa, John Hernandez and Superior Court Judge Edward A. Panelli.

4. Approved the following personnel items: appointed Paul Graton as assistant to the dean of counseling and guidance; appointed Howard Ganel as a sabbatical leave replacement in chemistry for 1972-73; accepted the resignation, with regret, of David Fauvre, business instructor at the college since 1968; and appointed Miss Jo Anne White as MTST operator effective Sept. 1.

FARMTALK -- Assemblyman Richard Hayden of the 22nd

District and Mr. Weyuker, administrative assistant for Assemblyman Robert Burke of Orange County, get together with three regional officers of the Future Farmers of America at a recent Leadership Conference of the farming group. Students discussing the conference are South Coast Regional Secretary Abbie Workman of Lincoln High School, South Coast Regional Reporter Nancy O'Connell of Blackford High School, and Paul Murk of Leland High School, sentinel.

CHEERY FARMER HONORED—Theodore M. (Ebb) Bohn, left, former Campbell resident who was known for many years throughout the state as Santa Clara County Fair's "Cheery Farmer," was honored at this year's Fair by State Assembly resolution, introduced by 22nd District Assemblyman Richard Hayden, right. The Assemblyman presented the resolution to Bohn at the Fair opening. The resolution details Bohn's past, which included many years in the entertainment field, during which time he formed a singing group, The Rocky Mountaineers, which provided a show business start for Roy Rogers and the Sons of the Pioneers. Ebb Bohn started in the entertainment business in Campbell, singing in local theaters and married a Campbell girl, the former Helen Crow, in 1922. Mrs. Bohn helped Ebb as Mrs. Cheery Farmer during many years at the County Fair, which continues through Sunday, Aug. 27, at the County Fairgrounds, Tully and Monterey roads, San Jose.
